

The Story of Gladys Aylward

Ordinary to Extraordinary

A one-person drama written and performed by Deanna Storrie

In the 19th and 20th Centuries, England sent hundreds of missionaries to China in an effort to evangelize and serve that vast nation. Through various mission organizations men and women, single and married answered the call and left all that was familiar to bring the good news of the gospel to a foreign land. Many would die in that land.

This is the story of an English parlor maid, Gladys Aylward (1902-1970), who became a famous missionary to China without the help of any mission agency. Hollywood thought her story so amazing that it made a movie in 1958 starring Ingrid Bergman and titled The Inn of the Sixth Happiness. However, upon seeing the movie Gladys was mortified that they had turned it into a love story. Her true love has always been her Savior, Jesus Christ.

"I wasn't God's first choice for what I've done for China... I don't know who it was... It must have been a man... a well-educated man. I don't know what happened. Perhaps he died. Perhaps he wasn't willing... and God looked down... and saw Gladys Aylward... And God said - "Well, she's willing."
